Representative students and faculty members of the University will present, over a national hook-up of the National Broadcasting Company and through the facilities of the University radio studios, a one-hour program of music, talks, and dramatization tomorrow morning from 11:30 a. m. to 12:30 p. m., under the direction of Elmer Sulzer, director of the extension studio and head of the University Publicity Bureau.

The presentation will open with a musical prelude by the University radio orchestra, following which Pres. Frank L. McVey will make a short introductory talk, followed by an orchestral interlude. Dean Thomas P. Cooper of the College of Agriculture will then deliver a short message, followed again by a selection by the radio orchestra. This part of the program will occupy the first half-hour.

The second part of the program will consist of a dramatization of the history of the University by the Microphone players, a student group directed by George Jesse.

Officers Elected
As KHSPA Closes
Two-Day Meeting

Vivian Morgan, Newport, was elected president of the Kentucky High School Press Association at the final session of its annual convention held on the campus Friday and Saturday with the University as host. Other officers elected were Clayton Robinson, Lexington, secretary; Elxene Mastin, Nicholasville, central district vice-president; Beulah Simmons, Anchorage, western district vice-president; and Ann Moore, Hazard, eastern district vice-president.

Best all-around paper awards went to Tighman High of Paducah in the class of over 250 students, and Mt. Sterling High for schools under 250 students.

Saturday's program included round-table discussions in various rooms of McVey hall by members of the University department of journalism faculty. A luncheon at the University Commons completed the two-day meeting, which approximately 175 high school boys and girls attended. Resolutions were passed thanking the University, the journalism staff, and Lexington newspapers for their cooperation.

Robbery Reported
At Mining Building

Approximately $185 worth of equipment, stamps and money from various classrooms and offices in the Mining building was stolen sometime Saturday, according to Prof. John F. Daniel, head of the department, who reported the theft to the police.

Professor Daniel told police that Miller Slusher, 25-year-old janitor, who lived in the building, had been missing since Saturday night when he rented a car from a local firm. A warrant was issued Sunday for Slusher by the auto firm.

Police found the cash box under a bed in Slusher's room.

YW FRESHMAN GROUP TO WRAP PACKAGES

Members of the Y. W. C. A. Freshman group will meet with the Y. M. C. A. Freshman cabinet at 7:30 o'clock tonight, in the "Y" rooms at the Armory, to wrap packages and Christmas presents for the children of the Lincoln school.

A Christmas party will be held, following the wrapping, and plans will be made concerning the presentation of the gifts to the children, on December 23. All members of the Freshman group are invited to attend.

HONORARY HOLDS PARTY

A mock "Monte Carlo" was operated last night at a party given by Sigma Gamma Epsilon, honorary geology, mining and metallurgical organization, for faculty and students of these departments. Using bogus script for cash, the guests enjoyed a roulette wheel, a black jack game, and a dice table. At the conclusion of the playing period, refreshments were served and prizes auctioned off with the bogus money.

PAN POLITIKON
PLANS PROJECT

Netherlands Are Chosen By Executive Board for This Year's Study; Will Feature
Convocation

Plans to study the Netherlands were made by the executive board of Pan Politikon at the first meeting of the year held at Maxwell Place last week. The purpose of the Pan Politikon is to further a better understanding between America and foreign countries by gaining as full a knowledge as possible of each country studied throughout the year.

The art, music, literature, science, agriculture, and history of the Netherlands will be studied in various classes on the campus. Library displays and a convocation featuring an outstanding native of the country will be other features of the year. Since every faculty member and student is included in Pan Politikon's membership, cooperation in the study of the country is being asked.

Members present at the organizational meeting at Maxwell Place included President and Mrs. McVey, Dean Sarah Blanding, Dr. and Mrs. Henry Beaumont, Sam MacDonald, John Breckinridge, Harlowe Dean, Lois Perry, and Theo Nadelstein. Various students and faculty members will be asked to work on the committees of the organization after Christmas. The next meeting of the executive board will be held at 5 p. m. Thursday, January 7, in the Boyd hall reading room.

Committee Chosen
By President McVey

Men to Plan for Forthcoming 150th Anniversary of the Constitution

Four members of the University faculty have been selected by President Frank L. McVey to serve with him on a committee for the forthcoming celebration of the 150th anniversary of the formation of the Constitution of the United States. President McVey was appointed to represent Kentucky in the celebration by Gov. A. B. Chandler.

The four members chosen were Dean Alvin E. Evans, Prof. Edward Tuthill, Prof. William Sutherland, and Prof. Frank Fowler.

The United States Constitution Sesquicentennial Commission was created at the last session of Congress and consists of five senators, appointed by the president of the Senate, five representatives appointed by the speaker of the House, and five presidential commissioners appointed by President Roosevelt. This commission has written to the governors of each state to appoint a state committee.

Official opening of the celebration will be Sept. 17, 1937, and states will be urged to declare a legal holiday. Celebrations will be held in each state upon the date of entrance into the Union, and the original 13 states will hold simultaneous celebrations.

Jolly Santa Graces Cover
Of Christmas Sour Mash

By SID BUCKLEY
Have you ever seen Bob Davis in diapers?

Few people have. But gracing the cover of the new edition of Sour Mash on sale today, not only Bob Davis, but the handsome torsos of Bob Mefford and Bob Hansen are seen in typical infantile regalia greeting the perennial professor of joviality, Saint Nick, with appropriate "ga-gas."

With such a suitable opening, the "Mash Barrel" pours out the spirits of the season, and with appropriate Christmas cheer, Sour Mash leads off with the photograph enhanced announcements of the new pledge queen, Evelyn Flowers, and her attendants. Here follows cuts of the Kylian queen and the most popular man, cartoons, gags on gangsters, gals, and genetics, and scandal that sears the sensitive sobriety of the student.

Features include a short, short story, "The Connoisseur," an intelligence test for those who don't know better, a "Course in Joke Writing," and an ode to the winds titled "In Defense of Immorality," by the uplifter, George Kerler.

Sour Mash is published monthly by members of Delta Sigma Chi, honorary men's journalism fraternity, and is under the direction of Ross J. Chepeleff, editor; George Spencer, associate editor, and James Hagler, business manager. Contributing editors include Theo Nadelstein, George Kerler, Glenn Clark, Cliff Shaw, and Sid Buckley. Original cartoons for the third issue of Sour Mash, to be placed on sale today by members of the various fraternities and sororities of the campus, were contributed by University students.

Police found clues pointing to the fact that the man in red and white on the cover went under the alias of Stan Nevers.

Sunday Afternoon in Memorial Hall

Phi Mu Alpha, honorary music fraternity, held a formal founder's day pledging for all new members Sunday, December 13, in Memorial hall with Harlowe Dean, Jr., president, conducting the ceremonies.

The new pledges are: William C. Wilson, Lexington; Edward Valleau, Lexington; William A. Merton, Martin's Ferry, Ohio; John McFarland, Lexington; Karl E. Vogel, Ashland; Jesse D. Carden, Lexington; Frank Goodfriend, Newport; Harry Zimmerman, Louisville; and Joe Kay Weatherly, Carrollton.

Phi Mu Alpha was founded at the New England Conservatory of Music in Boston, Mass., in 1898. "Child Jesus" Presented By Central Christian Group
At Sunday Vesper

By DAVID H. SALYERS

One of the largest vespers audiences of the current series filled Memorial hall Sunday afternoon to hear the choir of the Central Christian church, under the direction of C. Frederick Bonawitz, present "Child Jesus," a charming collection of traditional carols by Joseph W. Clokey and Hazel Jean Kirk. In the annual Christmas vesper program.

The choir's presentation was on the whole excellent, although at times the attacks were a bit ragged and the blending of voices was not all that might be expected. The chorus work on the various numbers was much better than the solo work. Numbers worthy of mention were the first, called "The Promise," a Gregorian melody of the Eighth Century; the traditional "Apparition to the Shepherds," into which was woven "The First Noel," and the final "Adeste Fideles," or "O, Come All Ye Faithful," which was the best rendered of the program.

Soloists for the concert were Genery Shelton, who took the part of the Narrator; Mrs. J. P. Johnston, soprano; Mrs. E. Frank Gudge, contralto; Earl Bryant, Tenor; Mrs. Lela Cullis, organist; Mary Rudie, harpist; Bruce Poundstone and Victor Cannon.

The stage was lighted in traditional Christmas style, with candles and greens and provided an impressive setting for the singers.

Five Students To Be Inducted

Phi Alpha Delta, honorary law fraternity, will hold annual fall initiation services this afternoon at 4 o'clock at the Lafayette hotel for Alben W. Barkley, senior Senator from Kentucky, who will be inducted as an honorary member, and five pledges of the organization.

The men who will be initiated are Courtney Wells, Hazard; Henry Wall, Paducah; Thomas Joutte Marshall, Paducah; Woodrow Kirkpatrick, Frankfort, and Ben B. Wright, Cadiz.

Phi Alpha Delta was the first legal fraternity to be organized on the University campus, having been founded in 1914. Some of the prominent alumni are Congressman Virgil Chapman, former Congressman John Y. Brown, Senator A. O. Stanley, Frank Glinochio, former chief justice of the court of appeals of Kentucky and now justice of the court of appeals, William H. Rees, former Federal Judge, Charles I. Dawson and R. C. Stoll.

Smokestack's Fate
As Yet Unknown

President McVey Announces
No Action to be Taken for Several Months

No definite action to determine the fate of the old smokestack behind the Administration building, which, according to present plans, will be torn down to make room for the new central heating system which is now being installed, has been taken, according to a recent announcement by President Frank L. McVey.

Several weeks ago, it was disclosed that plans for the central heating plant included doing away with the stack, one of the oldest and best known landmarks on the campus. Several letters were received and published by the Kernel protesting the removal of this landmark, and several stories concerning the removal have appeared in local papers.

According to President McVey, there probably will be no action for several months as, even after completion of the heating plant, it will be necessary to use the present system as a reserve until the new pipes are properly broken in. Those in charge of the building program have pointed out that the removal of the stack was included only as a "matter of course" and if allowed to remain, would require no maintenance cost.

MEMORY EXPERT
EXPLAINS POWER

Dr. Salo Finkelstein Shows
Friday Convocation Audience Methods of Rapid Calculating

Split-second calculations and rapid memorizing were demonstrated by Dr. Salo Finkelstein, of Warsaw Poland, at the pre-holiday convocation held in Memorial hall Friday morning. Doctor Finkelstein, famed for his adding ability, which has been proven to be faster than that of any adding machine, explained his method of memorizing with a description of the most important requirements necessary to develop such a talent.

"Rapid calculation is not an innate function," he said. "It is a combination of certain definite functions which can be developed by any average adult. These include intense concentration, speed of perception, self-confidence, a love of work with numbers, and practice." Doctor Finkelstein is capable of repeating 300 digits after hearing them once, or after seeing them written on a blackboard, and can memorize and repeat groups of figures faster than the average person can see them written.

Demonstrating his almost uncanny ability, he drew a square of 25 boxes on a blackboard, and had various students fill them with numbers. Looking at them once he turned to the audience and repeated the 25 digits in vertical, horizontal, and spiral order. He correctly added and multiplied groups of figures before the audience was able to read through them, and then discussed how he accomplished these.

Prior to Doctor Finkelstein's address, Dr. Louis Pardue, president of the local chapter of Phi Beta Kappa, presented Sue D. Sparks with $20 worth of books, in accordance with the annual custom which presents such an award to the sophomore who makes the highest scholastic standing in the freshman year.

Concluding the convocation, President McVey spoke on plans for the Student Union building, and made his traditional pre-holiday address. His invocation and benediction were offered by the Rev. Warner S. Hall, of the Maxwell Presbyterian church.

HOUSING UNIT TO MEET HERE

Doctor Jennings To Address
Opening Meeting; Conference to be Held January
6 and 7

Dr. Walter W. Jennings, University professor of economics, will deliver the opening address at the two-day session of the Federal Housing Institute which will be held on the campus of the university January 6 and 7, under the sponsorship of the university and the woman's division of the Federal Housing Program in Lexington. Doctor Jennings' topic will be: "The Value of Home Owning as Exemplified in American History."

The program will open at 2 o'clock on the afternoon of January 6 at which time Doctor Jennings will deliver his address.

Mrs. Alice B. Johnson, director of women's activities in the state of Kentucky for the Federal Housing Administration, will direct the institute, which is the first of 119 proposed educational institutes which have been planned.

There will be two general sessions for the institute to be held at the University, the one upon which Doctor Jennings will speak, and another, "What the Present Administration is Doing to Promote a High Standard of Living."

According to plans the two-day institute will be held at Memorial hall, and Monday evening, January 6, a banquet will be held in the University Commons at which Dr. Edward C. Elliott, president of Purdue University, will be the principal speaker. He will discuss "Changes in Housing the Last Three Decades, and the Modern Trend."

Game To Be Played at Mus-kies' Fieldhouse in Cincinnati; Entire Rupp Squad
Makes Trip

Kentucky's Wildcats will be seeking their third triumph in as many engagements when they invade Cincinnati tonight to battle Xavier University's Musketeers at Xavier field house, in the first of a two game home and home series.

The 'Cats' entire squad was scheduled to make the journey to Cincinnati this morning and Coach Rupp plans to use as many players as possible against the Crownmen tonight in an effort to locate the right combination for the season.

According to an announcement from the Athletic department the Kentucky-Xavier game will get underway at 8 p. m. (Cincinnati time). All seats for the game will be reserved and will sell for 75 cents. There will be no reductions with student athletic books.

Couch Glen Crowe's Xavier squad is an unknown quantity as yet and will be facing in Kentucky, the season's first foe. The Musketeers have several outstanding sophomores on the squad and it is expected that at least three of them will be in the starting lineup tonight.

On the firing line for Kentucky when the whistle blows will be Ralph Carlisle and "Smoky Joe" Hagan at the forward jobs; J. Rice Walker or "Tubby" Thompson in the pivot, and Captain J. Warfield Donohue and Barney Oppen in the backcourt.

Kentucky, 70; Berea, 26. Burying the Mountaineers under an avalanche of field goals the Kentucky Wildcats defeated the Berea basketball by the overwhelming margin of 70-26 Saturday night in the Alumni gymnasium.

Berea was the first to score when Wright, center, tossed in a field goal to put his team in front, but this lead was short-lived however, as Oppen, Kentucky guard, followed it up with a two-pointer tying up the game.

Oppen's shot was the start of a basketful of goals by the 'Cats who ran up a score of 29-6 before Coach Rupp began substituting, but the second team was not to be denied and at the half the 'Cats held a 33-7 lead.

At the beginning of the second period Kentucky's first team came back into the game and speedily sank goal after goal while holding the Mountaineers to a few scattered points.

When the score reached 45-10 the second squad again entered the tilt and could not be stopped, showing in 25 points before the game ended and preventing Berea from tallying more than 16 markers, making the final score read 70-26.

The 'Cats showed promise of developing into a real world-beater before the season is over as their top of ball Saturday was far superior to that displayed in the Georgetown match. They had a better eye for the basket and their guarding left little to be desired.

ALL STUDENT RIGHTS MAINTAIN

POINT NO. 3 FOR OPTIONAL CLASS ATTENDANCE FOR SENIORS

The third and final premise which was contained in our advocacy of non-compulsory class attendance for seniors in the University was, "...the scholarly aspect of the campus, not any too great at present, would be stimulated more by a movement of this nature than by any other method."

Though many may have forgotten that the purpose of a university is to inspire its students to attain intellectual and cultural improvements, we still believe that such is the case. We have discussed previously the fact that such a system would tend to bring this about to a higher degree. We propose now to show how this plan would improve the scholastic aspect.

It must be admitted that all the intellectual attainments are not to be found in the class room. When a student reaches the fourth year of college he is presumed to have absorbed, no matter how little, some of the rudiments of the scholastic and cultural temperament. How is he to prove that he has done this? By faithfully and sometimes blindly following the class room routine? We believe not.

Of course it may be answered that examinations are the best method of ascertaining the student's knowledge. Or that chats with the instructor is a good method.

As a matter of fact, such would be an integral part in the optional attendance plan. What could be more natural for a student to do than to receive assignments, work them out by private research, go to the instructor when a helping hand is needed, and yet retain the feeling of freedom and independence so necessary to the maintenance of the intellectual spirit?

He could then be examined upon a subject with the likelihood that his paper would reflect a freshness and originality which would never come to light under the present system of class attendance.

Discipline for youth is a great thing. Class room discipline is good, also. It is too much, however, to have us believe that the discipline which a senior would be subjected to is good for him. It not only is not good for the senior but it is not conducive to bringing about the inspiration which leads to intellectual and cultural attainment.

And so we have presented our three points for the adoption of the optional class attendance for seniors plan. We do not mean, however, that we have presented all the points for it, but merely that we have followed the pattern we set in our first piece concerning it. Thus, that such a plan would set up a new responsibility for seniors, giving them needed, and, we believe, rightful preparation for the days after graduation; that class room technique of teachers would have to be improved in order to attract seniors to class; and—our subject today—that the scholarly aspect of the campus, not any too great at present, would be stimulated more by a movement of this nature than by any other method.

The Kernel feels that in advocating a movement of this kind, it is doing only its share in keeping the University on its level as an educational institution of its type. We ask only the thoughtful interest and consideration of the administration and the student body. Some day, such changes as this one are coming about. The sooner that day arrives, the better it will be for the cause of higher education.

WE CAN'T SEE THE JOKE

When one student, viewing the current exhibition in the Art Center, took his pencil and wrote across one of the prints, he more than likely forgot:

Firstly, that there are no funds available at the University or in any of its departments, of which the art department is one, to pay for the replacement of disfigured and ruined pieces; and secondly, in such instances when prints are ruined, the cost of replacement must come from the faculty member or members who are sponsoring the exhibition. Thoughtless, wasn't it?

This Campus and That World

By RALPH E. JOHNSON

ONE OF THE MOST stupendous things upon which to ponder is the creation of all things. If you want to get in a quandry, if you want to work your brain into a tight, tired knot start pondering how it all came about.

While hundreds of the classes here on the campus are intensely interesting, perhaps not one of them piques the imagination as does the study of geology. Therein you may get your first real insight into all that is basic. For "dust thou art and to dust returneth," and it is that dust of which you will learn in those courses.

The phenomena of the earth's creation becomes so fascinating that it naturally leads the wondering mind through the most marvelous convolutions of thought. It tends towards, and insists on, the fact that you are only a most finite portion of a stupendous something that is infinite.

No one knows, although numbers have estimated, how old this earth of ours is. With a definitely finite mind they mention a number of years that passes even their greatest understanding—100 million years they might say. No one knows what that really means.

Just knowing that the years gone by are more than we are able to comprehend—just knowing that—is reason enough for feeling small. But further study will reveal a clever theory that may never be improved upon—the Planetesimal theory of the creation of our own planetary system. It is said by mathematicians that given enough time, with space, anything can happen. So they figured that if anything could happen a wandering star passed by the sun with terrific speed. The natural attraction of one body for another causes a huge molten mass to be snatched off the surface of the sun. The rebound splashed a second mass off of the sun's surface on the opposite side. The first couldn't keep up with the passing star and never got far enough away from the pull of the sun to be out of this system of planets, so it whirled and cooled off forming an earth, a mars, a jupiter.

Of course, all of this is rather hazy in my mind, for it has been some time since it was explained to me. But for popular explanation it will have to do.

Down through the eons of time this earth of ours has been changing. Life came from somewhere in the form of single-celled animals which, because of evolutionary conditions, found it necessary to adapt themselves in order that they might survive. Out of the mud and stygian ooze that covered this steaming sphere came crawling things that breathed air for the first time. Some of them flew, some crawled. The crawling things learned to walk. Some of those things that learned to walk learned to think. Some of those learning to think learned to talk. Then they learned to write and here we are, you and me!

The phenomena of the earth's creation—eons of time, relentless progress, have contributed in order that you might live. Millions on millions of mothers from amoebas up have added their life to yours, so you are not 18, 19 or 20 years old, but as old as time. The weight of all this progress is upon you. Do you not some times feel weighed down with the burden of it all?

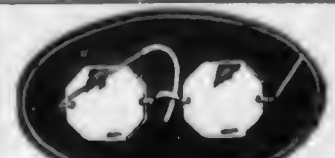

Thousands of brains have piled up results of deepest thought in order that you might know. You are in a great university. What are you doing about it!

A passing thought—in the theory of probability, as before mentioned—

SURE!

Intramural Finals Slated Thursday

EIGHT MATCHES WILL BE HELD IN EACH EVENT

Wrestlers and Boxers Reach Climax of Two-Weeks' Annual Carnival

As a climax to more than two weeks of fierce fighting and gory grappling, the finals of the annual intramural boxing and wrestling rodeo will be staged at 8 p. m. Thursday at the arena in Alumni gym.

According to the plans of Ringmaster C. W. Hackensmith, the wrestlers will go through their paces first with the boxing finals rounding out the program. Eight matches are scheduled in both events and the customers will witness the cream of University talent perform for the championship of the school.

The sixteen finalists in the wrestling division have already earned themselves the right to appear by scoring in the preliminaries. The pugilists held semi-final bouts at the Gym Annex last night.

The final wrestling matches will bring together in the 115-pound class, Jim Chester and Willis Jones, both Sigma Chi; 125 pounds, Charlie Justice, Sigma Chi, and Mel Forden, S. P. E.; 135 pounds, Charlie Caywood and Dave Rogan, both S. A. E.; 145 pounds, Charles Kelley, S. P. E., and Henry Wallace, Kappa Alpha; 155 pounds, Phil Englehart, Independent, and Jimmy Irvine, S. A. SEEING SPORT STUFF

By JOE QUINN
KERNEL SPORTS EDITOR

THE BASKETBALL scene shifts to Cincinnati where tonight Kentucky's Wildcats will get their first real test of the season when they square off against Xavier University Musketeers in the latter's field house.

Kentucky, recent conquerors of Georgetown and Berea, will find the company a little faster in Cincinnati tonight when Coach Crowe uncovers his latest edition of Muskies. Xavier will be handicapped inasmuch as this is their first contest, but from all reports he will have another strong and certainly well-coached combination.

Last year the Wildcats were jolted around considerably before they finally pounded out a four-point victory over the Xaviers. It wasn't until the last minute of play that Kentucky was able to snatch the battle from the fire and get on the right hand side of the payoff column.

This year Xavier will play without the assistance of little Leo Sack and Russ Sweeney, the two main cogs in the Crowe combination last season. According to our information there will be four sophomores in the starting Musketeer lineup. In this respect, Xavier will resemble the Georgetown Tigers who also featured a quartet of sophomore talent in the first-string team.

Xavier always plays a better brand of ball when it performs on its own field house floor and Kentucky never fails to see plenty of action up there. Tonight's melee should furnish local fans with a good idea of just how tough the 'Cats are apt to be this season. If they can take the Musketeers handily, they'll show that they have the potential power that is expected of them.

We look for a Kentucky victory by at least 10 points.

The annual football clash featuring the Kappa Alphas and the Phi Deltas was held last Saturday afternoon and for the fourth straight year the teams pushed and shoved around to a scoreless deadlock. "Senator" Flippin, Phi Delta manager, said that his team was the racehorse type and couldn't get going on the sloppy track. As usual, he had been confident of victory, but the muddy field ruined his club's chances. The K. A.'s could not be reached for a statement, but they held a dance at the house Saturday night, so maybe they figured that it was a moral victory and called for a celebration.

Thursday night means more than "the night before Christmas" vacation. Finals in the intramural boxing and wrestling tournament are scheduled that night and will be staged in the Alumni gym.

Judging from the record turnouts that have been looking in on the preliminary performances, Promoter C. W. Hackensmith will have to erect more bleachers than he had for last year's finals, when 1200 avid customers piled in to set a new record for the final matches.

The current tourney has been packing them in for the past two weeks and with good reason. Last Friday night, for instance, there were eight knockouts on a program of 18 bouts, every one of which was packed with action. For three hours the pugilists entertained, and as an anticlimax to the evening, there was a miniature riot thrown in for good measure. What more could the customers want for a dime?

Signs on the Dotted Line . . . men's dorm residents were treated to a huge laugh last Saturday by Joe Orr, Stan Nevers and Dick Robinson . . . the trio was starting over to the field to officiate the fraternity football battle and were dressed in the manner of a thimble from the family album . . . tight-fitting trousers, black jerseys and non-fitting baseball caps completed their gay nineties ensemble . . . Barney Opper has already started to pine for his Bronx home and hopes that Coach Kupp lets the boys off for a few days during the holidays so that he can make a flying trip to the Big City . . . sports editors of all school papers whose teams are members of the Southeastern conference have compiled an all-conference team which should be ready for publication soon . . . It looks as if the swimming team will join the ranks of other University minor sports teams in search of a coach . . . along with the golfers and pugilists . . . Jim Doyle, S. A. E., 175-pound boxer, suffered a slight concussion of the brain in his bout with Tom Spickard last Friday night . . . but it was partly due to a recurrence of an old injury . . . Jim has been in the hospital for a few days.

closely followed by Tubby Thompson, pivot man, who obtained 13 points. The rest of the scoring was fairly well divided as three 'Cats had eight markers. Of the second-stringers Walter Hodge, a sophomore guard, gave the best performance with four field goals.

Fifteen Kentucky men saw action in this top-sided tilt and of these only four failed to score. The regulars Donohue and Hagan gave their usual steady performance while Opper played a whale of a defensive game.

It is easy to pick Berea's outstanding player as Clark, forward who looped in four field goals and a like number of free throws for twelve points, almost half of the Mountaineer's total.

In the preliminary, the Kittens, with Marion Clough leading the way tallying seventeen points, vanquished the Dixiana Farm team 53-12.
